Motivate to Win – Online & Onscreen

While “WFH” has increased in recent flexible and agile working patterns looks to become a new normal. Leadership has suddenly moved online. Do your leadership skills match the new situation?

In this short webinar we will look at leadership and help you consider what changes you need to make to help you lead credibly and with improved confidence, especially when confined to a computer screen.

Effective leaders develop traits and habits which seem automatic, but which come down to a range of behaviours and skills. In this webinar we help you improve your habits and attitude to identify approaches which will enhance your leadership, your team and ultimately your business.

This is a practical and interactive webinar, led by an expert in communication. Come prepared not just to listen, but question, contribute and learn. There will also be the opportunity to consider how to develop your own skills further through individual coaching.
